

Steve W. Berman (pro hac vice)
 Emilee N. Sisco (pro hac vice)
 Stephanie Verdoia (pro hac vice)
 HAGENS BERMAN SOBOL SHAPIRO LLP
 1301 Second Avenue, Suite 2000
 Seattle, WA 98101
 Telephone: (206) 623-7292
 Facsimile: (206) 623-0594
 steve@hbsslaw.com
 emilees@hbsslaw.com
 stephaniev@hbsslaw.com

Benjamin J. Siegel (SBN 256260)
 HAGENS BERMAN SOBOL SHAPIRO LLP
 715 Hearst Avenue, Suite 300
 Berkeley, CA 94710
 Telephone: (510) 725-3000
 Facsimile: (510) 725-3001
 bens@hbsslaw.com

Counsel for Plaintiffs and the Proposed Classes

Jeffrey L. Kessler (pro hac vice)
 David G. Feher (pro hac vice)
 David L. Greenspan (pro hac vice)
 Adam I. Dale (pro hac vice)
 Sarah L. Viebrock (pro hac vice)
 WINSTON & STRAWN LLP
 200 Park Avenue
 New York, NY 10166-4193
 Telephone: (212) 294-4698
 Facsimile: (212) 294-4700
 jkessler@winston.com
 dfeher@winston.com
 dgreenspan@winston.com
 aidale@winston.com
 sviebrock@winston.com

Jeanifer E. Parsigian (SBN 289001)
 WINSTON & STRAWN LLP
 101 California Street, 34th Floor
 San Francisco, CA 94111
 Telephone: (415) 591-1000
 Facsimile: (415) 591-1400
 jparsigian@winston.com

Counsel for Plaintiffs and the Proposed Classes

[Additional counsel on signature page]

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
OAKLAND DIVISION

IN RE COLLEGE ATHLETE NIL
 LITIGATION

Case No. 4:20-cv-03919-CW

PLAINTIFFS' REPLY IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE OPINIONS OF DEFENDANTS' EXPERT PROFESSOR
 BARBARA OSBORNE

Date: September 21, 2023
 Time: 2:30 p.m.
 Judge: Hon. Judge Claudia Wilken
 Courtroom: Via Zoom Video Conference

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
I. INTRODUCTION	1
II. ARGUMENT	1
A. Professor Osborne’s report is replete with improper legal opinions that are inadmissible.	1
B. Professor Osborne is not qualified to opine on the financial viability of Plaintiffs’ damages model and also has applied no reliable methodology to support her opinions on this topic.....	6
C. Professor Osborne’s opinions are also not relevant to the issues before the Court.	8
III. CONCLUSION.....	8

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Page(s)

FEDERAL CASES

Bao Xuyen Le v. Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Cnty. , 2019 WL 2289681 (W.D. Wash. May 29, 2019).....	4
Berry v. City of Detroit , 25 F.3d 1342 (6th Cir. 1994)	6
Cloud v. Pfizer Inc. , 198 F. Supp. 2d 1118 (D. Ariz. 2001)	7
Comcast Corp. v. Behrend , 569 U.S. 27 (2013).....	8
Garcia v. Cnty. of Riverside , 2019 WL 4282903 (C.D. Cal. June 7, 2019)	4
Hangarter v. Provident Life & Accident Ins. Co. , 967 F. Supp. 1437 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).....	2, 3, 6
Mancuso v. Consol. Edison Co. of New York, Inc. , 967 F. Supp. 1437 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).....	7
Pogorzelska v. VanderCook Coll. of Music , 2023 WL 3819025 at (N.D. Ill. June 5, 2023).....	3
Portz v. St. Cloud State Univ. , 297 F. Supp. 3d 929, 953 (D. Minn. 2018).....	2
Stewart Title Ins. Co. v. Credit Suisse , 2015 WL 4250704 (D. Idaho July 13, 2015).....	3
United States v. Weitzenhoff , 35 F.3d 1275 (9th Cir.1993)	3

FEDERAL RULES

Fed. R. Evid. 403	3
Fed. R. Evid. 701	3
Fed. R. Evid. 702	passim
Fed. R. Evid. 704	2, 3

I. INTRODUCTION

Professor Osborne’s opinions are inadmissible and should be excluded. Defendants’ opposition attempts to avoid this conclusion by mischaracterizing her report. Even a cursory review of the report—discussed in Plaintiffs’ motion and quoted again herein—shows that Professor Osborne offers little more than legal interpretations of Title IX and attempts to apply those erroneous interpretations of the law to her view of the facts. This is precisely the type of legal opinion testimony that courts will not admit. As for the non-legal opinions that Professor Osborne offers regarding the financial viability of Professor Rascher’s damages model, they are far outside of her area of expertise and are offered without any principles or methods to support them. And, wholly apart from the above fatal defects of inadmissibility, all of Osborne’s opinions on Title IX are simply irrelevant to the limited issues before the Court at class certification. Her entire report should therefore be excluded pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 702.

II. ARGUMENT

A. Professor Osborne’s report is replete with improper legal opinions that are inadmissible.

The Court should reject Defendants’ request to permit an attorney and law professor to testify about her view of the legal requirements of Title IX—and then apply those interpretations of the statute and its regulations to her view of the underlying facts of this case—under the guise of expert testimony. Courts in the Ninth Circuit have repeatedly prohibited experts from testifying about what federal and state statutes require, or from opining about whether a statutory violation occurred. Defendants attempt to re-frame Professor Osborne’s report as consisting solely of testimony “regarding industry practices and standards and the history and context of Title IX”¹ In doing so, Defendants flatly mischaracterize the substance of Professor Osborne’s report and opinions, as well as the applicable case law.

None of the cases cited by Defendants supports the admissibility of the type of legal opinions offered by Professor Osborne. To the contrary, these cases excluded testimony that is nearly identical

¹ Defs.’ Joint Opp’n to Pls.’ Mot. to Exclude the Opinions of Defs.’ Expert Professor Barbara Osborne (“Defs.’ Opp’n”), filed Aug. 11, 2023 (ECF No. 305) at 4.

1 to Osborne’s testimony. For example, Defendants attempt to analogize Professor Osborne’s report to 2 testimony found admissible in Pogorzelska v. VanderCook College of Music. But the court in that case
 3 was clear that “[e]xpert witnesses may not testify to legal conclusions, which are the province of the 4 court.” 2023 WL 3819025 at *7 (N.D. Ill. June 5, 2023). And while the Pogorzelska court permitted
 5 limited expert testimony about industry standards and the reasonableness of defendant’s response to 6 the plaintiff’s harassment allegations, it excluded other parts of the expert’s testimony that
 7 “purport[ed] to provide an overview of the ‘clearly unreasonable’ standard as well as the significance
 8 of industry practices in evaluating whether this standard has been met.” Id. at *8. Just like Osborne
 9 here, the expert in Pogorzelska “ma[d]e several statements of law that reflect her own understanding 10 of how the standard operates. . . . This statement and others like it are problematic, both because they 11 provide an editorialized gloss on the operative standard without citing binding case law, and because 12 they infringe on the role of the court to instruct the jury on what the law is.” Id. Here, too, Osborne
 13 offered erroneous interpretations of Title IX with no supporting case law (as she admitted at her 14 deposition).² The court in Portz v. St. Cloud State University excluded similar testimony on the 15 grounds that allowing an expert to opine on the requirements of the law “would give the jury the 16 appearance that the Court is shifting to [the expert] the responsibility to decide the case.” 297 F. Supp.
 17 3d 929, 953 (D. Minn. 2018).

18 Defendants rely on a portion of the opinion in Hangerter v. Provident Life & Accident
 19 Insurance Company where the court noted that “expert testimony that is ‘otherwise admissible is not 20 objectionable because it embraces an ultimate issue to be decided by the trier of fact.’” 373 F.3d 998,
 21 1016 (9th Cir. 2004) (quoting Fed. R. Evid. 704(a)).³ And they also argue that Professor Osborne’s
 22 opinions are admissible because they “are not on the ultimate legal issue of antitrust liability in this 23 case.”⁴ But contrary to Defendants’ assertion, Rule 704(a)’s statement that an expert opinion that
 24 “embraces an ultimate issue” is not “automatically objectionable” does not salvage Osborne’s 25 improper legal opinions. While opinion testimony concerning an ultimate factual issue may be

26 ² Decl. of Steve W. Berman in Further Support of Pls.’ Mot. to Exclude the Opinions of Defs.’
 27 Expert Professor Barbara Osborne (“Berman Decl.”), Ex. 74 (Osborne Dep. Tr.) at 119:9-15;
 123:15-20; 167:7-19 (filed concurrently herewith).

28 ³ Defs.’ Opp’n at 6.

⁴ Id. at 1.

admitted under Rule 704(a), there is no basis for admitting legal opinions by an expert, whether or not they embrace an ultimate issue in the case.⁵ In Hangarter, for example, the expert’s testimony was found admissible because the expert opined that the defendants had “deviated from industry standards,” a factual—not legal—question. Id. at 1016. The Hangarter court was clear that “an expert witness cannot give an opinion as to her legal conclusion.” Id. (explaining that experts cannot “instruct[] the jury as to the applicable law”); see also United States v. Weitzenhoff, 35 F.3d 1275, 1287 (9th Cir.1993) (“Resolving doubtful questions of law is the distinct and exclusive province of the trial judge.”). Simply put, although Professor Osborne may provide testimony about relevant industry standards or customs, she is not permitted to offer legal opinions under the guise of “inform[ing] the Court regarding Title IX practices, standards, and individualized assessment considerations that would be implicated by the but-for world contemplated by Plaintiffs’ BNIL damages model.” Defs.’ Opp’n at 8; see Stewart Title Ins. Co. v. Credit Suisse, 2015 WL 4250704 at *14 (D. Idaho July 13, 2015) (“While Nielsen prefaces his opinions with reference to industry custom, they are often nothing more than legal conclusions.”).

Professor Osborne goes far beyond testifying about Title IX practices and standards. She instead seeks to instruct the Court as to the legal requirements of Title IX and offer her opinions on whether and how Title IX would apply to the but-for world contemplated by Plaintiffs’ proposed damages model. Unlike the expert witness in Hangarter who merely made passing “references” to legal provisions and never actually “reached a legal conclusion,”⁶ Professor Osborne offers her own legal interpretations of Title IX, her legal opinion on which specific provisions of the law apply to the facts of this case, and her legal opinion on how those specific provisions have been (and should be)

⁵ See Advisory Committee Note to FRE 704 (“The abolition of the ultimate issue rule does not lower the bars so as to admit all opinions. Under Rules 701 and 702, opinions must be helpful to the trier of fact, and Rule 403 provides for exclusion of evidence which wastes time. These provisions afford ample assurances against the admission of opinions which would merely tell the jury what result to reach, somewhat in the manner of the oath-helpers of an earlier day. They also stand ready to exclude opinions phrased in terms of inadequately explored legal criteria.”).

⁶ Hangarter, 373 F.3d at 1016-1017.

1 interpreted, so that she can ultimately offer the over-arching legal opinion that schools would violate
2 Title IX if they made the broadcast NIL payments that Plaintiffs' experts have modeled.⁷

3 While Osborne admitted during her deposition that her appropriate role in this case was "not
4 to offer a legal opinion,"⁸ and Defendants insist that her opinions are "not legal conclusions,"⁹ this is 5 impossible to square with the plain text of her report. For example, the heading of a large section of 6 Professor Osborne's report boldly summarizes her legal opinion that "V. PLAINTIFFS'
7 BROADCAST MODEL VIOLATES TITLE IX."¹⁰ But this is just the tip of the legal iceberg.
8 Osborne's report is filled with legal conclusions and instructions on how Title IX should be applied to 9 the facts of this case, as illustrated by the following examples:

- 10 • "I would advise that providing benefits to select teams in such a lopsided manner along 11 sex-based lines would violate Title IX."¹¹
- 12 • "Plaintiffs' Broadcast Model would require the Court to disregard clear legislative history 13 and rewrite established Title IX law."¹²
- 14 • "Institutional Title IX obligations apply to the broadcast revenue the Conferences distribute 15 to their member schools."¹³
- 16 • "I would flag Plaintiffs' Broadcast Model as a violation of the Title IX regulations and 17 Policy Interpretation sections governing the provision of financial assistance."¹⁴
- 18 • "The regulatory provision on financial assistance is broader in scope than the provision on 19 the award of athletic scholarships and would prohibit the disparate payments posited in 20 Plaintiffs' Broadcast Model, even if those payments were made by the Conferences."¹⁵

21 ⁷ Defendants' other cases also support excluding this type of legal opinion testimony. See Garcia
22 v. Cnty. of Riverside, 2019 WL 4282903 (C.D. Cal. June 7, 2019) (permitting expert's testimony
23 regarding "his experience with jail management and the practical problems that jail guards face 24 when dealing with difficult inmates" but precluding expert from offering any opinion on the legal 25 question of whether the defendant used "reasonable force"); Bao Xuyen Le v. Reverend Dr. Martin 26 Luther King, Jr. Cnty., 2019 WL 2289681 (W.D. Wash. May 29, 2019) (permitting expert testimony
27 about "law enforcement practices, tactics, techniques, and training" generally, but precluding experts 28 from offering their "legal conclusions" regarding the reasonableness of the defendant's conduct.).

⁸ Berman Decl., Ex. 74 (Osborne Dep. Tr.) at 54:18–24.

⁹ Defs.' Opp'n at 7.

¹⁰ Expert Report of Barbara Osborne ("Osborne Rep."), filed Apr. 28, 2023 (ECF No. 251-3 (Redacted) and 254-3 (Sealed)), Part V, at p. 39 (heading).

¹¹ Id. at ¶ 28.

¹² Id. at ¶ 29.

¹³ Id. at ¶ 30.

¹⁴ Id. at ¶ 31.

¹⁵ Id. at ¶ 31.

- 1 • “I would flag the payment scheme as a violation of Title IX.”¹⁶
- 2 • “[T]he contemplated broadcast revenue share payments are not compatible with Title IX,
- 3 and in particular, Title IX’s financial assistance provisions, equal opportunities provision,
- 4 and equal treatment provision.”¹⁷
- 5 • “Although Plaintiffs propose that the Conferences—which are not subject to Title IX—
- 6 make payments to student-athletes, the Broadcast Model still implicates Title IX.”¹⁸
- 7 • “[E]ven if the Conference bylaws could somehow be amended to permit Conferences to
- 8 distribute broadcast revenue without member institutions’ direct involvement, the
- 9 Broadcast Model revenue payments still would implicate Title IX even if they are not made
- 10 by the schools directly.”¹⁹
- 11 • “Section 106.31(b)(6) of the Title IX Regulations prohibits educational institutions from
- 12 perpetuating discrimination by providing significant assistance to an entity that
- 13 discriminates on the basis of sex in the course of providing any financial assistance to
- 14 students. In my opinion, providing personal information for student athletes to facilitate
- 15 the disparate payments Plaintiffs propose constitutes ‘significant assistance,’ and I would
- 16 advise any institution for which I was conducting an audit that such facilitation of
- 17 disproportionate financial assistance along gender lines would be at odds with Title IX.”²⁰
- 18 • “[M]y opinion is that Plaintiffs’ Broadcast Model violates Title IX.”²¹
- 19 • “I would have to conclude that the Broadcast Model violates Title IX.”²²
- 20 • “The Regulations’ provisions on athletic scholarships are distinct from the Regulations’
- 21 provisions on general ‘financial assistance’ but are instructive as to how Title IX
- 22 compliance would be measured for the Broadcast Model payments.”²³
- 23 • “Under Plaintiffs’ Broadcast Model, institutions would need to find an equivalent amount
- 24 of funding to provide equitable financial support for women’s athletics programs in order
- 25 to comply with Title IX.”²⁴

21 ¹⁶ Id. at ¶ 32.

22 ¹⁷ Id. at ¶ 33.

23 ¹⁸ Id. at ¶ 78.

24 ¹⁹ Id. at ¶ 94.

25 ²⁰ Id. at ¶ 94.

26 ²¹ Id. at ¶ 95.

27 ²² Id. at ¶ 96.

28 ²³ Id. at ¶ 110.

²⁴ Id. at ¶ 134. Notably, as explained in Plaintiffs’ motion, Professor Osborne also admitted several times during her deposition that she reached the conclusions in her report by applying her own interpretation of Title IX (the law) to the facts of this case. See e.g., Berman Decl., Ex. 74 (Osborne Dep. Tr.) at 57:10-11 (“I’m providing my opinion about how I would apply the law”); Id. at 165:2-5 (“I looked at the broadcast model and applied Title IX, and so I offered my opinion as whether or not Title IX would be implicated by that model.”).

1 These legal opinions are clearly impermissible under Rule 702.

2 B. Professor Osborne is not qualified to opine on the financial viability of Plaintiffs’
 3 damages model and also has applied no reliable methodology to support her opinions
 4 on this topic.

5 In her report, Professor Osborne opines that “it would be virtually impossible to locate
 6 sufficient additional funds to ensure some form of compensation for female student-athletes
 7 proportional to the significant amounts that Plaintiffs contemplate for male student-athletes under the 8 Broadcast Model.”²⁵ Simply put, Professor Osborne—who is not an economist, or an accountant or 9 even an administrator familiar with college athletics budgets—is not qualified to offer this opinion.
 10 Moreover, she does not identify any reliable principles or methods to support her conclusions about 11 college finances.

12 Defendants argue that Professor Osborne is qualified to offer opinions regarding the financial 13 viability of Plaintiffs’ damages model because of her “years of experience as an athletics administrator
 14 and Title IX auditor.” But they offer no evidence or explanation about how this experience provided 15 her with any expertise on the finances of college athletics. Defendants cite the court’s statement in 16 Hangarter that Rule 702 “contemplates a broad conception of expert qualifications.” Defs.’ Opp’n at 17 20. But the expert in Hangarter had 25 years working in the insurance industry and offered general, 18 “non scientific” and non-technical testimony about insurance industry standards. 373 F.3d at 1017. By 19 contrast, Professor Osborne offers highly technical testimony about the financial inner-workings of 20 collegiate sports at the Division I level without demonstrating that she has any experience with such 21 financial matters. Aside from her Title IX consulting work, Osborne never worked within any Division
 22 I school or conference,²⁶ nor did she conduct any analysis of Division I school budgets.²⁷ “The issue
 23 with regard to expert testimony is not the qualifications of a witness in the abstract, but whether those 24 qualifications provide a foundation for a witness to answer a specific question.” Berry v. City of 25 Detroit, 25 F.3d 1342, 1351 (6th Cir. 1994). Thus, while Osborne may have expertise relating to 26 certain non-financial aspects of Title IX compliance in athletic programs, there has been no showing
 27 made that she has any expertise to opine on the financial management of Division I athletics programs

28 ²⁵ Osborne Rep., ¶ 133.

²⁶ See Berman Decl., Ex. 74 (Osborne Dep. Tr.) at 30:20-24.

²⁷ See id. at 197:5-12.

1 or the financial ability of Division I schools to reallocate their resources to comply with any Title IX
2 issues.

3 Additionally, while Defendants attempt to bolster Professor Osborne’s credibility by pointing
4 out that she reviewed an “NCAA finances database” in the course of preparing her report, a witness
5 may not become qualified as an expert simply because he or she conducts a selective review of 6 literature in the relevant field for the purpose of educating his or herself on the relevant topics in order
7 to offer expert testimony. See, e.g., Mancuso v. Consol. Edison Co. of New York, Inc., 967 F. Supp.
8 1437, 1443 (S.D.N.Y. 1997) (“We cannot help but conclude that Dr. Schwartz was not in fact an expert
9 in PCBs when he was hired by plaintiffs, but that he subsequently attempted, with dubious success, to 10 qualify himself as such by a selective review of the relevant literature.”).

11 Moreover, Professor Osborne’s opinions regarding the financial viability of Plaintiffs’
12 damages model are technical, economic-based opinions that require empirical or other reliable
13 methods in support. But she admits that she has not conducted any such analysis. Osborne testified 14 that she did not conduct any independent studies or economic analyses to determine the financial 15 impact of Dr. Rascher’s damages model on athletic department budgets, rendering her opinions on the 16 issue nothing more than rank speculation.²⁸ Rule 702 requires that expert testimony be “based on 17 sufficient facts or data” and must be the product of the expert’s application of “reliable principles and 18 methods” to the facts of the case. Fed. R. Evid. 702. Reliance on anecdotal evidence alone does not 19 suffice. Cloud v. Pfizer Inc., 198 F. Supp. 2d 1118, 1133-34 (D. Ariz. 2001) (reliance on compilations 20 of occurrences do not satisfy Rule 702 or Daubert I (citing Jones v. United States, 933 F. Supp. 894, 21 899-900 (N.D. Cal. 1996), aff’d 127 F.3d 1154 (9th Cir.1997), cert. denied 524 U.S. 946 (1998))).
22 Because Professor Osborne offers no principles or methods, empirically based or otherwise, to support
23 her opinions about the financial viability of Dr. Rascher’s damages model, her opinions must be 24 excluded for this reason as well.²⁹

25
26
27
28 ²⁸ See id. at 179:2-10.

²⁹ Osborne Rep., ¶ 133.

C. Professor Osborne's opinions are also not relevant to the issues before the Court.

As explained in Plaintiffs' motion (see pages 12-13), Osborne's testimony should be excluded for the independent reason that her opinions are also irrelevant to the only issue presently before the Court: whether Plaintiffs' damages classes can be certified. More specifically, whether Dr. Rascher's proposed broadcast damages model is consistent with Plaintiffs' theory of liability and whether damages can be determined by the jury on a class-wide basis. See Comcast Corp. v. Behrend, 569 U.S. 27, 34-35 (2013). None of Professor Osborne's opinions about Title IX have anything to do with this class certification inquiry. Indeed, the application (or inapplicability) of Title IX is a common legal issue for the merits—not class certification—for all class members. Her opinions should be excluded for this reason too.

III. CONCLUSION

For all the foregoing reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully request that Professor Osborne's report and testimony be excluded.

Dated: September 1, 2023

Respectfully submitted,

HAGENS BERMAN SOBOL SHAPIRO LLP

WINSTON & STRAWN LLP

By: /s/ Steve W. Berman

By: /s/ Jeffrey L. Kessler

Steve W. Berman (pro hac vice)

Jeffrey L. Kessler (pro hac vice)

Emilee N. Sisco (pro hac vice)

David G. Feher (pro hac vice)

Stephanie Verdoia (pro hac vice)

David L. Greenspan (pro hac vice)

HAGENS BERMAN SOBOL SHAPIRO LLP

Adam I. Dale (pro hac vice)

1301 Second Avenue, Suite 2000

Sarah L. Viebrock (pro hac vice)

Seattle, WA 98101

WINSTON & STRAWN LLP

Telephone: (206) 623-7292

200 Park Avenue

Facsimile: (206) 623-0594

New York, NY 10166-4193

steve@hbsslaw.com

Telephone: (212) 294-4698

emilees@hbsslaw.com

Facsimile: (212) 294-4700

stephaniev@hbsslaw.com

jkessler@winston.com

dfeher@winston.com

dgreenspan@winston.com

aidale@winston.com

sviebrock@winston.com

Jeanifer E. Parsigian (SBN 289001)

WINSTON & STRAWN LLP

101 California Street, 34th Floor

San Francisco, CA 94111

Telephone: (415) 591-1000

Benjamin J. Siegel (SBN 256260)

HAGENS BERMAN SOBOL SHAPIRO LLP

715 Hearst Avenue, Suite 202

Berkeley, CA 94710

Telephone: (510) 725-3000

Facsimile: (510) 725-3001

bens@hbsslaw.com

Facsimile: (415) 591-1400
jparsigian@winston.com

Jeffrey L. Kodroff
SPECTOR ROSEMAN & KODROFF PC
Two Commerce Square
2001 Market Street, Suite 3420
Philadelphia, PA 19103
Telephone: (215) 496 0300
Facsimile: (215) 496 6611
jkodroff@srkattorneys.com

Counsel for Plaintiffs and the Proposed Classes

Counsel for Plaintiffs and the Proposed Classes

ATTESTATION PURSUANT TO CIVIL LOCAL RULE 5-1(i)(3)

Pursuant to Civil Local Rule 5-1(i)(3), the filer of this document attests that concurrence in the filing of this document has been obtained from the signatories above.

/s/ Steve W. Berman
STEVE W. BERMAN